Your valuable jewellery deserves the best storage. That's why we have developed a solution that provides optimum protection for your jewellery! After intensive research, we have developed a new generation of jewellery storage that actively protects against corrosion. This innovation goes beyond previous solutions: Our corrosion protection contains special particles that react faster with corrosion-causing elements from the air than conventional methods. This means that your jewellery is better protected against damage in our storage units. Our active corrosion protection is environmentally friendly, RoHS-compliant, meets TRGS 615 and TRGS 900 standards and is recyclable. For all-round safe storage, please follow our care instructions.
