Product Description

With this tool belt, children have the opportunity to play role-play and construction games for hours. Children love to imitate everyday situations, especially when it comes to building and repairing things. The set contains many different items such as screws, nuts, hammers, screwdrivers and much more. Overall, the set offers a lot of learning potential as you can use your imagination. For example, you can count all the parts, sort them, learn what functions they have, how they are used and what they are called. There are no limits to what you can learn here.
